Scott Moore advises clients across industries on business formation, transactions, and operational matters, with a focus on health care, bankruptcy, and corporate law.

Scott has practiced law for nearly 30 years, representing banks, hospitals, physician groups, manufacturers, and other businesses of varying sizes and industries. He has guided many clients through the formation of new businesses, helped them grow through acquisitions, and advised on the sale of all or part of their businesses when the timing was right, including one of the earlier physician group practice sales to a private equity firm.

Scott's work in the health care sector includes representing hospitals, physicians, physician groups, and their ancillary ventures. These matters often involve a combination of contractual, compliance, and antitrust issues. Among his health care clients is a large independent practice association engaged in risk-based Medicare Advantage contracting.

His transactional practice extends beyond health care, encompassing the purchase and sale of businesses and assets across a range of industries. Scott began his legal career in bankruptcy law and continues to serve clients with bankruptcy-related matters. His background has proven valuable in transactions involving the acquisition of businesses from bankrupt entities. For years, he has represented a self-insurers guaranty fund, traveling nationally to protect the rights of the fund and the employees of bankrupt debtors.

Scott also serves as outside general counsel to many clients, advising on a wide variety of operational and contractual issues. He values the opportunity to apply both legal and business insight to help his clients succeed.

Scott is AV® Preeminent™ Peer Review Rated by Martindale-Hubbell.
